FRENCH TROOPS
STILL POURING IN RUHR VALLEY

With Dusseldorf Under Martial Law,
Control Tightens—Telegraph
Employees Threaten Strike
Monday

REPORT THAT LITTLE ENTENTE ABOUT TO OFFER MEDIATION

By Associated Press

While the French are pouring additional troops into the Ruhr Valley today and tightening control, the population remained quiet. Dusseldorf virtually was under martial law.

Telegraph employees in the valley notified the French that they would strike Monday if troops were not removed from telegraph offices.

The effectiveness of the French cordon around Ruhr was indicated when the shyness of the rolling stock unnecessarily being sent out of the valley. An unconfirmed report comes through Paris that the little entente, through Czechoslovakia are about to offer mediation between France and Germany.

DR. TRIGG THOMAS SPEAKS IN POOLROOM NEXT WEEK

For the purpose of reaching those who rarely attend church services, Rev. Trigg Thomas will preach at the Hub pool room at 9 o'clock next Monday morning. James A. Richardson, proprietor of the establishment, has given the evangelist permission to use the room for this service. This announcement was made after the service at circuit court this morning. All men present were invited to come to this novel service. The subject of his sermon will be "The Greatest Need of Middlesboro."

The subject of the sermon at the First Presbyterian church tonight will be "Backsliders." It is intended especially for the benefit of church members. Sunday morning at 10 o'clock he will preach on "The A. B. C. of Religion" and at 11 o'clock he will preach on "Justification by Faith."

What will be perhaps the most interesting service of the entire campaign will be held at the church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Thomas will preach to women and girls only at this service. Positively no men will be admitted. The subject of this special sermon will be "Consolation and Christian Service."

MISS LUCY LEES FORD DIES IN KANSAS CITY

A telegram stating that Miss Lucy Lees Ford died in Kansas City yesterday was received here by Miss Henrietta Gordon this morning. Miss Ford was the daughter of R. C. Ford of Owenton. She was born in Middlesboro and lived here all her life until nine years ago. She was greatly loved by her large group of Middlesboro friends to whom the news of her death comes as a shock. No particulars of her death were given. Burial will be in Owenton Monday or Tuesday.

S. W. GIVENS DIES LAST NIGHT AT HOME HERE

Sawyer Woolfolk Givens, aged 72 years, died at his home on Amesbury Avenue at about midnight last night. Mr. Givens had been in failing health for a number of years but his death was hastened by a stroke of paralysis a week ago.

Mr. Givens was born at Stanford, Ky., in 1851. He became engaged in farming near there and lived there until coming to Middlesboro twenty years ago. He was married November 23, 1879, to Miss Mattie Luckey of Stanford. He is survived by his widow and by three children: Mrs. J. L. Beazley, Miss Mary Byrd, and Gabe.

Mr. Givens ran a feed store and livery stable in Middlesboro until forced to give it up by poor health. He has a large circle of friends here and has long been one of Middlesboro's most respected and honored citizens.

A short funeral service will be held for Mr. Givens at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Christian church of which Mr. Givens was a member. The body will then be taken to Stanford for burial. Mrs. Givens, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Beazley, G. Peyton of Shawanee and Mr. Givens' brother, B. W. Givens of Stanford will accompany the body. The Rev. A. B. Reeves will have charge of the services tomorrow. Active pall bearers will be Charles Cooke, Dr. C. K. Brosheer, Dr. T. T. Gibson, S. H. Fulerson, R. L. Maddox and Warren P. Rash. Honorary pall bearers will be W. J. Callison, George Peyton, F. M. Gordon, W. E. Chabel H. R. Chandler and Ernest Warren.

The main object in view was to get the cooperation of the employees in order to give better service to the people.

BEST MEETING OF REVIVAL LAST NIGHT

Dr. Thomas Preaches on Love,
From John 3:16—Service
7:30 Tonight

What was probably the best meeting so far in the revival services being held at the Presbyterian church, by the famous evangelist, Trigg Thomas, was that of last night. The church was filled and overflowing, and a fine spirit pervaded the entire meeting, which was honor night for the graded schools, many of whom with their teachers occupied the center of the church.

Dr. Thomas took for his subject, John 3:16, perhaps the best known verse in the Bible, and the best known sentence in the world. He told of how this text saved a boy from starvation and gave him a night's lodging, and from it went streams of life to an entire institution, and while his congregation was well represented by children in the front seats, yet not one of them moved during the story, so intensely interesting and dramatic was it.

The preacher then branched out into the meaning of the word "Love," and showed that there was no real life unless the gold of this world ran through it.

What is the reason a novel, trashy and untrue to the facts of life will sell by the million and people will read it with avidity, while the true history and philosophy will bring its author to the poor house? He asked. "Because running through the book is the stream of love and because this is the greatest word in the world, we find it everywhere. I say it with reverence; whenever you find a book with more love than the Bible it will supplant the dear old book; and whenever you find a religion with more love than Christianity, Christianity will go for it is love that rules the universe. But this time will never, can never come, why? Because the gospel is the greatest love story in the world.

"God so loved the world. How much? Just this much, that He gave his only Son. Think of that. He gave his son and he gave it for you. Empty heaven of its choicest treasure; tore from its setting his fairest jewel; went back to a lonely heaven while his son lived and served and died for you! Just think of this and then ask whether Christianity will ever be supplanted by anything else."

The speaker delivers his sermons like sledge hammer blows. He uses the choicest English to clothe his ideas; every word expresses something; not a syllable is wasted; his voice is wonderful and he uses it with great care and effect. He plays upon every note in the scale and upon every emotion of the soul. People from all the churches are attending and are coming night after night. The service tonight will be at 7:30, and will be the best yet. Dr. Thomas will preach on "The Forsaken Christ."

Daily News to Promote Made In Middlesboro Industries

Do you know the extent of the manufacturing industries in Middlesboro?

Do you know the tremendous possibilities of Middlesboro as a manufacturing center?

It is surprising how few of our local people know of the advantages of Middlesboro as a great center for manufacturing industries. Our city is so new, and the South has been so often looked to for only agricultural developments, that we overlook the chances for development along manufacturing lines.

Centrally located in a great industrial region, now at the beginning of a stable and consistent development, this city is the logical center for the erection of a large number of manufacturing plants. Every few days representatives of large concerns come to Middlesboro looking over the field.

STRANGLED CHILD

Louisville Girl, 23, Admits She Killed Baby, Ill and Born
Blind

By Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 27.—Presenting a picture of misery Mrs. Ruby Doremus, 22, was arraigned in police court here today on a charge of strangling her nameless, eighteen-day old baby girl, two months ago and burning its body. She seemed, however, to take little interest in the proceedings. The examining trial was set for February 2. Police today are seeking another woman who lived with Mrs. Doremus and whom she accuses as an accessory. According to police the mother said she strangled her child because it was ill, born blind and continually cried.

A THOUGHT

And Jacob served seven years for Rachel; and they seemed unto him but a few days, for the love he had to her.—Genesis 29:20

In the morning when thou risest unwillingly, let this thought be present: "I am rising to the work of a human being. Why then am I dissatisfied if I am going to do the things for which I exist, and for which I was brought into the world? Or, have I been made for this, to lie in the bed-clothes, and keep myself warm?"—Marcus Aurelius.

WHAT ABOUT OUR COUNTY SCHOOLS?

Complacently content with the progress that Middlesboro schools have made in the past year and with the educational program of the future outlined for this city, we as citizens are likely to forget that our obligations to the cause of education extend further. It was with a full understanding of this situation that Hon. George Colvin asked the question, "What about your county schools?"

Our responsibility certainly does not end with Middlesboro—or, as far as that goes with Bell county or with Kentucky. "There is no safety for any of us except in the highest development of all of us," Mr. Colvin declared, urging an equalization of education. Middlesboro has as superintendent, one of the ablest educators in the state. With her new school buildings just completed adequate housing facilities for all the children in town is effected. Our teachers are well qualified and organized and the entire school system here is well along on the way toward being one of the best in Kentucky.

But in the rural districts just outside of Middlesboro some of the most deplorable conditions imaginable exist. School terms extend from three to five months, with such inadequate pay that teachers are indeed hard to obtain. There is no organized system of instruction or grading, and the county administration of schools has been, in the past, faulty to a large degree.

We take the stand of heartily endorsing Mr. Colvin for his stand to equalize education and to take its administration out of politics. He has made a strong effort to change the way of electing county superintendents and, probably at the expense of party favor, he has fought the now famous normal school question. Probably no man in public office in Kentucky has so conscientiously striven to better conditions in his department and thinking voters in the state will not forsake him for his defiance of party tradition. Mr. Colvin denied that Kentucky is forty-fifth in the union in education and we are inclined to agree with him. "You can have the kind of schools and school administration that you want," he declared. Let us, as Kentucky citizens, want the right kind of schools and line up behind Mr. Colvin to obtain them.

Hunt the brighter side. Longer winter lasts the longer it is before you have to take a vacation.

Times are so bad people are having to work for a living.

THE SOUTHERN MOUNTAINEERS

Ida Clyde Clarke, in a recent issue of the Pictorial Review, indulged herself and her pen, as many others have done, in drawing a picture of southern mountaineers. Whether she obtained what she writes in the form of information by going among the mountaineers, or whether she drew upon her imagination for her facts it is not for us to undertake to say.

But one thing we have said more than once and are willing to repeat, that is, there is no section of our country that is more purely American than these same southern mountaineers. As said in the New York Tribune: "These mountaineers of Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky are pure blooded descendants of the original Jamestown settlers with 400 years between them and their English progenitors. Their blood has not been mixed for good or ill, with that continuous stream of Old World nationalities, that has flowed over the rest of the country." It may be only a part truth, as added by the New York Tribune to the effect "They have not been forgotten."

They have not been forgotten. That good soldier of his country, and like-wise Soldier of the Cross, General O. O. Howard, devoted some of the last years of his life to the building up and endowment of that grand institution, Lincoln Memorial University, located near Cumberland Gap in Tennessee. That school is more prosperous than ever before, and it is devoted to the education of the sons and daughters of these mountaineers. And the attendance of the school is larger now than it has ever been before.

These mountaineers are not guiltless, they have participated in the rude disturbance of the public peace at times, have been guilty of acts of lawlessness, but like things have occurred in the cities which may boast of their advanced civilization. It may be the exact truth as the woman writer mentioned says; but when it comes to "Americanization," it is not a pleasing thing to say, but it's true, there are cities where more Americanization is sadly needed.—Journal and Tribune.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

This was Buster Brown Bear's valentine to Miss Patty Pig.

Nancy and Nick took it to her, because Miss Pig couldn't come to the lockery-free postoffice herself, living in a small house with no outside door except the one into the barnyard.

And Miss Patty was far too stout to squeeze through the rails of the fence.

"Just wait until I read it to you," she said to the twins. "Or better still you sit on the top rail of the fence and read it to me. I see you have magical glasses and Buster's writing is hard to read."

So Nancy began:

"Oh, dearest Miss Pig,
So round and so fat,
I would that you were mine,
From Maine to New York.
What is finer than pork?
Pray be my valentine."

"Oh, darling Miss Pig,
You're growing so big,
You make me heave a sigh,
You're so tempting and sweet,
(Quite lovely to eat!)
That you bring a tear to my eye."

JUDGMENT

Once on a time I respected the high-brows,
Once I was ruled by their cultural views.

I treasured the curl of their uplifted eyebrows—
Now, well, I think more or less as I choose.

Truth in the highbrow's omniscience was shaken
When this plain fact was revealed to my sight,
Highbrows are oftentime badly mistaken.

Lowbrows are frequently perfectly right

Back in the days when Bill Shakespeare was living,
Highbrows regarded his drama as low.

Viewed all his stuff with a mien unforgiving,
Called "As You Like It" a "popular show."
Shakespeare has glory that goes on forever.

From what this clear little lesson we cull,
Maybe the lowbrows aren't totally dull.

Do not be frightened of snobs intellectual,
Smooching at snobs with the "popular touch."

Though they aspire to command and direct you all
They do not really amount to much;
Cease to regard them with awe and with terror.

For though they chatter of "beauty" and "art,"
Sometimes the highbrows are grossly in error,
Sometimes the lowbrows are right from the start.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abelling.

KATE WARD, widow of DAN WARD, living with her father, JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor, CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan was father of her child.

DOROTHY, Kate is much perturbed. A few evenings later Kate and her father find the unconscious victim of an auto crash near their home and carry him in. Recovering, he gives his name as JAMES LATHAM and woos Kate. She, fond of him, yet remembers husband does not know what to say. Then it develops that Latham knew Dan. He tells Kate of a trunk in an old fishing shack Dan owned which he thinks would throw a light on his past. Then comes a letter from Alice, begging Kate's aid. Accompanied by Latham, she visits the girl's home but she is not there. A woman, however, tells her something of Alice's life. Kate rejoins Latham, waiting in his car.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
Except for asking James Latham to drive to the little fishing shack where Dan's trunk had been left, Kate was silent when she returned to the car.

Something the woman said of Alice held her attention.
"She might be a fine lady now if she hadn't fallen for the wrong man."

Perhaps thought Kate, if Alice and she had reversed in meeting their men friends, their positions might now be reversed. Perhaps it isn't so much herself or Alice's self which put either of us where we are, the thought continued; it may be just circumstances with which we came in touch at various times.

And she wondered who the man had been, the one man who had stood out in Alice's life so distinctly that, in spite of her reticence, her friend had sense the affair. Could it be possible that he was the man with whom she had seen Alice? Could the slim, slouching figure she saw bending toward Alice, as he entered the hotel, be the man for whom the girl cared so much? And, if he was, what of Dan? What place had Dan occupied in the girl's life?

Kate found some comfort in the thought that Alice's chief interest had been in some other man. Yet strangely, her vanity was hurt that, since she believed Dan had been interested in Alice, the girl had not given him her first and greatest affection.

She was jealous of him, but quite as jealous for him! Like all women, she wanted her man to be the most attractive to other women, yet she wanted him to be very apparently her own.

You've gone away from me again into one of those dream worlds which you create so easily," James Latham's voice aroused her.

"Yes," pensively. They were winding around a bend in the road which followed the river bank. A charming little shack, partly logs partly rough stone, was visible.

"Your estate," James Latham smiled, and waved toward the structure.

"Is that the fishing shack?" Kate was eager.

"That's it."

As the car came to a halt she skipped out and up the path.

"How do you get in?" she called over her shoulder.

FOR LOVE'S SAKE ONLY

If thou must love me let it be for naught
Except for love's sake only. Do not say
I love her for her smile, her look, her way
Of speaking gently; for a trick of thought
That falls in well with mine, and eertes brought
A sense of pleasant ease on such a day—
For these things in themselves, beloved may
Be changed, or change for thee—and love so wrought
May be unwrought so. Neither love me for Thine own dear pity's wiping my cheek dry,
A creature might forget to weep who bore
Thy comfort long, and love thy love thereby,
But love me for love's sake, that evermore
Thou may'st love on through love's eternity.

—Mrs. Browning.

Good Manners

"Thanking you in advance" is anything but a suitable termination for a letter asking a favor of another. Firstly, it takes too much for granted in assuming that the request surely will be granted, even though one may know it as a certainty.

Second, if granted, the favor however trifling, is worth a separate acknowledgment.

Girl Scouts Have Snowball Party

The Red Rose troop of Girl Scouts had a snowball party yesterday afternoon in the Sunday school room of St. Mary's Episcopal church. There were forty-eight persons present, including the Bluebird troop. Contests were held in story writing, in grade-mark guessing and in a song contest. An enjoyable musical program was heard, with the following numbers: piano solo, Helen Lewis; piano solo, Pearl Buxton; piano solo, Elizabeth Chandler; vocal solo, Lola Smith; scout songs, Red Rose troop. Refreshments of coffee, snowball sandwiches and popcorn balls were served. Among the guests were: Mrs. J. W. Charlton, Mrs. E. C. Cowden, Mrs. Frank Tucker, Mrs. D. C. Hinks, Mrs. Ike Buxton, Miss Emily Gilmer, G. M. Brosheer, H. H. Saunders, W. C. Stair and Mr. Wright of Louisville.

I. O. O. F. Banquet

The Oddfellows banquet at the Hotel Cumberland last night was enjoyed by 125 members and guests many of whom were from other towns. Speeches, music and the spirit of Oddfellowship featured the occasion. J. O. Helburn, Grandmaster of Kentucky, was unable to be present owing to the illness of his business partner.

Grand Secretary R. G. Elliott of Lexington made an impressive address on the subject of Oddfellowship and the general purposes of the order. He told of the work being done at the I. O. O. F. orphan's home, of their care of the aged and other benevolent work.

Rev. Trigg Thomas and Dr. Johnson A. Gray each made an appropriate address. Short speeches were made by Wade Gibson and Chas. E. Cooke. Dr. Jacob Schütz was toastmaster. The welcome address was delivered by Noble Grand J. C. Baumgardner. The invocation was given by Rev. J. G. Browning and the benediction was asked by Commandant C. Outburt.

The songs, "America" and "My Old Kentucky Home" were sung by those present.

Among the prominent out of town visitors present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Robinson of Tazewell, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Haynes of Tazewell and John Turner of Norton.

February's Three Holidays

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

February brings us three holidays, on each of which one wants to serve something and to provide table decorations appropriate to the occasion. St. Valentine's Day offers many possibilities. Any heart-shaped cake or confection is suitable. Cherries and hatches are associated with the name of George Washington.

For the anniversary of the honored Lincoln the humble log cabin or something representative of our flag or emblematic.

Cutters made to resemble hearts, hatches, rabbits and chickens are helpful and if you cannot find them in some store, any tinsmith will make them upon being furnished with a pattern.

Cookies are easy to make and attractive when garnished and frosted. For instance, a heart-shaped cookie may be frosted pink or red, or frosted white and garnished with a heart made from red candies.

Cookie dough cut with a hatchet-shaped cutter might have a cherry baked on it.

And in garnishing a cookie, remember that a brushing with delicate white of egg should precede baking.

For those who live in or near cities there are, in all the candy shops, many attractive decorations in keeping with the season. Small boxes come in heart, hatchet and flag shapes, adding much to the appearance of the table and serves as souvenirs. The children always enjoy valentine games and the refreshments are not least important among the plans for them.

In the table center have a big, heart-shaped Jack Horner pie done all in pink, with pink and blue streamers connecting with presents to be pulled from the pie's interior. The blue ribbons will be for the boys; the pink ones for the girls.

The place cards should be valentines—the old-fashioned lacey sort.

A good menu would be:

- I
- Creamed chicken (In heart-shaped patties or cases cut from stale bread with a heart-shaped cutter, and toasted)
- Tiny baking powder biscuits, creamed
- Fruit salad with whipped cream and mayonnaise
- Small, heart-shaped wafers
- Cocoa Pink and white candies
- II
- Oyster soup in cups (Whipped cream sprinkled with paprika on top)
- Toasted chicken sandwiches with lettuce garnish
- Ice cream in fancy shapes (Hearts and cupids)
- or
- Sponge cake, cut in heart shapes, split and filled with whipped cream
- or
- Boiled custard in glasses
- Pink whipped cream
- Cakes and pink candies

MARTIN PAGE NEWS

We have missed little Eva's smile at the sewing machine these last few days. The reason is a recent visit to the dentist.

Everybody agrees that Duskey is the most versatile operator in the mill. Yesterday morning she was running her barning machine, in the afternoon we saw her operating the jigger machine, and today we noticed she was running a button hole machine. We wonder what she was saying when the threads kept breaking.

Mrs. Hurst has not been in for a few days on account of the seriousness of her baby. We are all sorry. Mrs. Hurst, and hope the baby will soon be better.

The flu has been flirting with a lot of us lately. Mossie Brotherton suffered the worst attack, being confined to the house for almost two weeks. We are glad to see her back, Mossie.

Leda Guiley is back at her machine again and doing as well as ever. We think she would not miss that thumb if the Doctor had decided to cut it off. By the way, Leda, we have not seen the shop Doctor dress that thumb lately, you better get after him, or is he too rough.

Say don't the two Mossie's make a great team on the strapping machine?

They sure keep the Artos cutter busy. Mr. Martin, Sr., paid us a visit on Tuesday. He expressed himself as delighted with the way things were running. It's a long hike from Boston, Mr. Martin, but we hope to see you again.

Mr. Martin and Mr. McKinnon dined with Mr. Martin, Sr., at the Cumberland Tuesday night, they must have had a big feed. We noticed the superintendent did not wear his vest all next day. Tell us what you had, Mr. Mac.

A new drinking fountain has been installed in the stitching room. Makes you want to drink often.

We are glad to welcome Hattie Shipley and May Rogers, new faces in our finishing room. They seem to be full of pep and will soon be doing as much as any of the older finishers.

Cassie Beeler went home sick yesterday afternoon. We notice she is with us again this morning.

Those Moyers Twins are hard to tell apart. They keep Mac moving keeping them supplied with work.

Theodore's Black-Draught Liver Medicine (Vegetable) Praised by the Head of a Louisiana Family.

Lake Charles, La.—"I don't know what we would have done had we not had Black-Draught. It sure is one of the best medicines made, and am sure the best liver medicine," said Mr. Henry Garrett, of this city.

"My whole family uses it," continued Mr. Garrett. "My wife says she believes she kept off the 'flu' by taking doses of Black-Draught regularly."

"I, myself, use Black-Draught for indigestion, and it is fine."

"We used pills and tablets and other laxatives, but they never seemed to do us good, but the Black-Draught sure has, and it has come to our house to stay. We give it to our daughter for headache and torpid liver."

"I am glad to recommend anything that has been the help to my family that Black-Draught has."

"My present health is good. Have two boxes of Black-Draught in the house now."

If your liver gets out of fix, take Black-Draught. It will help to drive the bile poisons and other unhealthy matters out of your system.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

Eating too much meat may clog the kidneys, then the back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Ouch! Rub Backache, Stiffness, Lumbago

Rub Pain from back with small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil."

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica or maybe from a strain, and you'll get relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil." Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on your back and out comes the pain. It is harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Linger up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years.

With Coldest Months Ahead, Nearly-Naked Russians Seek U. S. Aid in Preventing Deaths

While the people of America already begin to look forward to the coming spring, more than a million Russians, wrapped in a scanty allowance of rags, must still face the coldest weather of the entire winter. In Russia the thermometer drops to its lowest mark in February and in March. Between now and the first warm days, death threatens a vast multitude of Russian children and adults, American Relief workers throughout the country declare, unless clothing is sent to them.

With the early days of 1923 the clothing shortage has reached menacing proportions. A single garment to a person is the rule in Russia, and ever that one garment only too often consists of rags, or thin flour sacking, or even of stitched newspaper pages.

Children are so inadequately clad that on the coldest days it is impossible for many of them to venture forth even to the A. R. A. child-feeding kitchens for food. In the orphanages they huddle together for warmth.

Their elders fare even worse, since the best of their tattered raiment is wrapped about the children. It is utterly impossible for Russians to buy clothes at this time, with a pair of shoes costing a month's wage, while the price of an overcoat often is as much as a man can make in a year. Adding to the general misery is the fact that the price of fuel is at present prohibitive.

To prevent the coming weeks from rivaling last year's famine in the toll of human lives, the American Relief Administration has inaugurated a new clothing remittance package, on the same plan as the celebrated Hoover food remittance packages of last year. Each package costs $20 at the New York headquarters of the American Relief Administration, 42 Broadway, and will be delivered to any designated individual in Russia, or distributed for general relief, just as preferred by the donor.

The contents of each package are as follows: 4 2/3 yards of 58-inch, 20-ounce dark blue wool cloth, sufficient for a suit of clothes for an adult, or outer garments for two children; 4 yards of black cotton lining; 16 yards of muslin, sufficient for 4 suits of underwear; 8 yards of flannel, sufficient for two men's shirts or two women's shirtwaists; buttons and thread to make up this material.

A direct receipt from the Russian who gets the clothing will be sent to the donor of each package.

What Have They Decided?

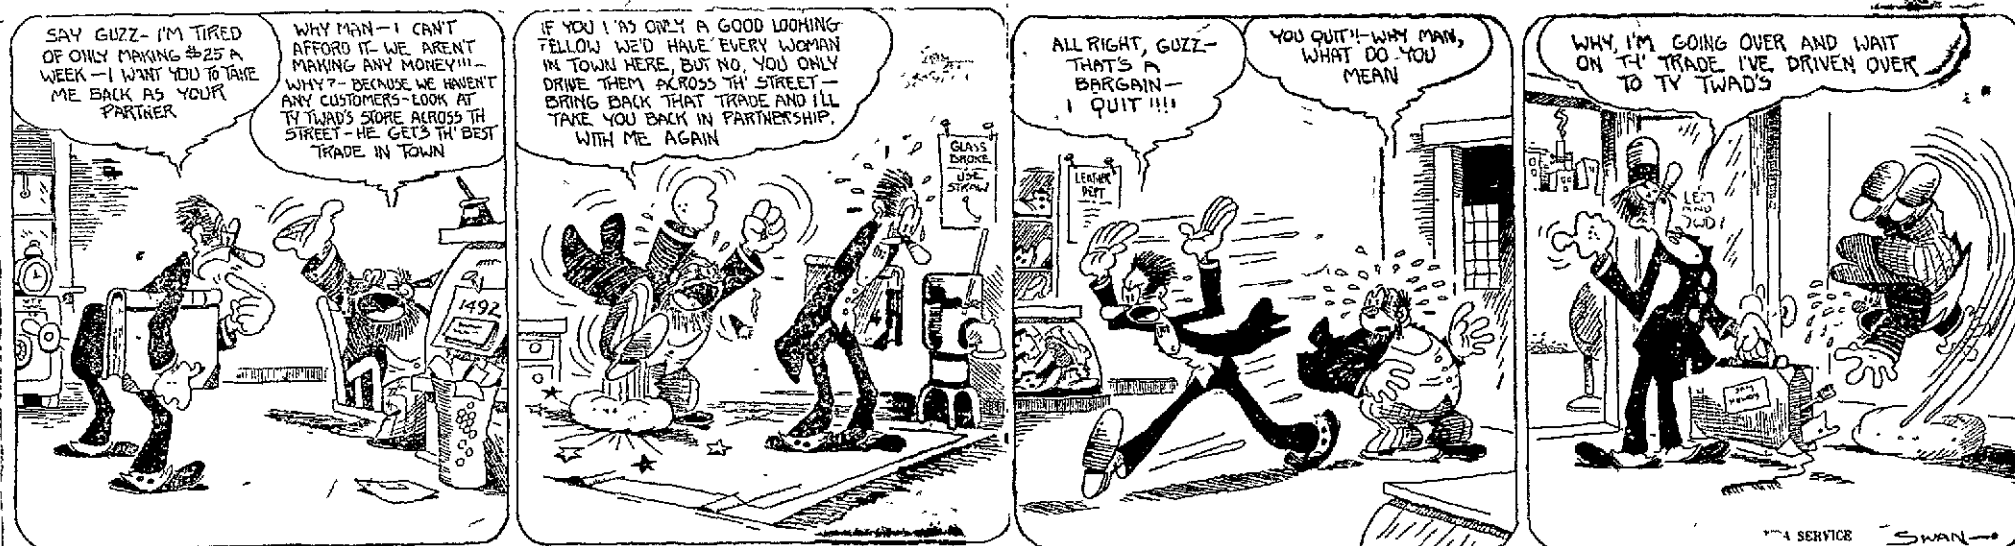

The German attitude, whether of armed resistance or passive non-cooperation, will be decided by these three master minds. Left to right, Hugo Stinnes, great industrial magnate; Von Hindenburg, and Bertha Krupp, proprietor of the great munition factories.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You
Darken Gray, Faded Hair
With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied - it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.
